

D-DAY

the unheard tapes

matthew button

D-DAY

THE UNHEARD TAPES.

D Day the unheard tapes - statement

D Day The Unheard Tapes presented a unique brief which demanded both Production Design and research rigour.

We had an extremely challenging budget in which to recreate the drama elements portraying individual perspectives of the greatest invasion in history.

The poignant personal stories had to feel believable and immersive bringing the viewer into the horror of the unfolding events of June the 6th 1944.

There were many logistical obstacles to overcome from adverse weather, inaccessible locations and tides to contend with.

What looked almost impossible from both a budgetary and schedule perspective was only made possible due to the dedication and collaboration of the crew.

I believe everyone felt a commitment to honour the memories of ordinary people in the most extraordinary of circumstances.

